

clerical matters on which George S. Ward can furnish information he will be subpoenaed to bring his accounts for a similar examination to that to which his son's are to be subjected.

Mrs. Beryl Ward, all in gray and apparently in most cheerful spirits, arrived at the court house early with Miss Lulu Barrows, the nurse of her children, and Miss Amy Mild, the housemaid. They were escorted by Allen R. Cochrane, of Ward's counsel.

A report from Haverhill, Mass., today said the parents of young Peters had arranged to sue Walter S. Ward for $50,000 for the death of their son. They were expected in White Plains yesterday to testify before the Grand Jury but did not come.

There was an intimation to-day that James Joseph Cunningham, whose various stories of the black-mailing plot and shooting resulted in his going to jail, may become an immunity witness to-day. He was released yesterday on a writ of habeas corpus by Supreme Court Justice Seeger on the ground that the Coroner had no right to commit him to jail. He was rearrested a moment later and held at the request of the District Attorney as a material witness in $5,000 bail.

Maurice McCarthy, his lawyer, said he expected to furnish the bail to-day, but Sheriff Werner quotes Cunningham as saying: "I don't care whether I get out or not." He is said to be afraid of members of a black-mailing gang.

Incidentally McCarthy has given out what he says is Cunningham's "revised" story, presumably the one he will tell the Grand Jury. It was that Charlie Rogers and Joe Jackson went to Cunningham two weeks before the shooting and asked him to "aid in thwarting a $150,000 black-mailing plot." Cunningham wanted to know if the persons could be trusted. The attorney did not say what Cunningham learned along this line, but said it was the last Cunningham heard of it until 1 or 1.30 A. M. on May 16, when Rogers and Jackson telephoned him. Rogers reported that Peters had been killed and Jackson badly wounded. Rogers asked Cunningham to fix Jackson up with a doctor, and Cunningham asked them why they didn't get a doctor where they were. Rogers replied they couldn't "because the authorities were after them." An hour later Cunningham met Rogers and Jackson in the Bronx, near Cunningham's home, "a short distance down the street." Cunningham went back home to get a coat, debating whether to help them or call the police, and when he returned to where he had left them they had disappeared. He said he next saw Rogers in Stamford and asked Rogers to produce Jackson, but was told that Jackson was too badly hurt. He has seen neither since.

John Cienzo, picked up in Philadelphia with a bullet wound in his arm, has been eliminated from the Ward case.

BOY OF 15 KILLED OVER QUITS GAME

Jersey Lad of Same Age Is Charged With Slaying.

Michael Parloti, fifteen, is dead and his friend, James Podiepehek, same age, is held at the State Home for Boys at Jamesburg, N. J., following a quarrel at the home yesterday afternoon.

The dead boy, who lived in Jersey City, and Podiepehek, who lived in Newark, were inmates of the home.

It all grew out of the dead boy's resentment when he was not included in a game of quito. Michael stood with his foot on one of the pegs. "Jimmie," according to the other boys, ordered Michael to get away.

"You can't make me," replied Michael, the boys say, and "Jimmie" gave Michael a shove in reply. Michael returned the shove with a blow to "Jimmie's" forehead and "Jimmie" knocked Michael down with two blows to the chin.

Parloti dropped and died without regaining consciousness.

BERLIN, June 6.—Though the Russian Government has sought for two years to manufacture automobiles in the former Fiat works near Moscow, the factory has not produced one car.

Complete reorganization of the factory and adoption of new plans are forced by some political decree every time the works are on the point of production. The factory is now in charge of one of Henry Ford's engineers.

IRISH PUSH MEN TO BELLEEK SECTOR TO STOP INVADERS

Will Resist Attempt to Take Town of Belleek or Magheramara Castle.

HOSPITAL FIRED UPON.

Collins and De Valera Reported to Have Agreed to Stand by Compact.

BELFAST, June 6.—Irish reinforcements are being rushed into the Belleek sector for resumption of the battle with the British Army.

The Imperial troops still hold the town of Pettigo, which they captured Sunday. Their lines extend over a front of about a mile, penetrating into Free State territory. Pettigo is on the border, part of the town being in Ulster and part in the Free State.

The Irish are expected to launch a counter attack if the British attempt to move upon Magheramara Castle or the town of Belleek, their next objectives.

BELFAST, June 6.—Belfast was mystified last night by intense and long-continued firing in the vicinity of the Mater Infirmity, adjoining the Crumlin Road Jail.

A number of bullets struck the wall of the hospital and six windows were pierced. Consternation reigned among the patients, and those who were able left their beds, taking refuge on the floor. The police combed the district for the gunmen, but without result.

The official report on the incident said shots were fired at the jail, and the guard, believing that institution was being attacked, replied with machine guns, some of the bullets from which struck the hospital.

LONDON, June 6 (Associated Press).—Arthur Griffith and his colleagues on the Irish delegation will leave Dublin to-night, it is announced, for a resumption of their negotiations with Colonial Secretary Churchill.

Mr. Griffith is expected to bring with him the revised constitution, and to-morrow the Irish representatives will meet Mr. Churchill for a preliminary discussion.

Premier Lloyd George will arrive from Wales on Thursday. He will confer with Churchill and if there is satisfactory progress, there will be a formal conference of the Irish and British representatives Friday morning in Downing Street.

A Belfast despatch reports considerable firing last night near Lettercran, between Pettigo and Castle-derg; also at Mullaghfad, on the Fermanagh-Monaghan border. Two men and a girl were killed in the Lettercran area.

Prohibition of the exportation of food from Londonderry is reported to have been extended to include foodstuffs, livestock, coal and other merchandise, the object being to terminate the robberies of these articles from trains and lorries in Donegal. The Provisional Free State Government is meeting the consequent food shortage by sanctioning the chartering of motorboats in which to import food from Glasgow, it is said.

LONDON, June 6.—Michael Collins's charges that the troops driven from Pettigo by the British were Free State regulars and not rebels, will probably be taken up by Arthur Griffith and other Irish representatives with Churchill. Collins also protested that the town of Pettigo, from which the Irish were driven, is mostly in Free State territory and not in Ulster.

Collins and De Valera, meeting in Dublin, have resolved to adhere to their agreement providing for a coalition government in Ireland to reconcile the rebel and Free State elements.

INDEPENDENTS MAY UPSET IRISH ELECTION PLAN

Collins-De Valera Compact Aimed at Even Division on Treaty.

DUBLIN, June 6 (Associated Press).—Although the manifesto issued yesterday by Michael Collins and Eamon De Valera was expected to diminish the number of independent candidates for the Irish elections, the posting of nominations to-day in the twenty-six counties of Southern Ireland indicated that the Labor Party was still determined to run its eighteen candidates.

The name of James Larkin, former head of the Transport Workers' Union, recently released from prison in the United States on a writ of reasonable doubt, did not appear as an independent nominee.

The Collins-De Valera balance between advocates and opponents of the Anglo-Irish Treaty may be upset by the independents.

Besides the Labor nominees numerous candidates also were named to-day by the Farmers' Union.

Department of Justice Investigating—La Follette Also Busy.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Recent increases in gasoline prices are under investigation by the Department of Justice, it was announced to-day.

Numerous complaints have been received by Congressmen and the department against the raises. The statement by the department declared that "much attention was being paid to the legal questions" in the gasoline industry.

In the mean time, Senator La Follette of Wisconsin is completing plans for a Senatorial inquiry into the increases. He issued a statement to-day that the investigation will not be allowed to drag.

La Follette is Chairman of the Senate Manufactures Committee, which will conduct the gasoline hearings.

"Though I can make no boast now about results," La Follette said, "I am sure the investigation will have far-reaching effect."

POSTAL RECEIPTS SHOW BIG GAINS IN FIFTY CITIES

Increase of $3,000,000 in May; Other Sections Also Reflect Prosperity.

WASHINGTON, June 6.

An increase of nearly 15 per cent. in the business of the Post-office Department during May as compared with the same month of last year, was regarded to-day as an indication of steadily increasing prosperity throughout the country, especially as it related to business. Assistant Postmaster General Glover stated that this increase was the greatest within the past seven years.

The largest increases were noted in Louisville, Ky., with an average of 32 per cent.; Dayton, Ohio, 27; Brooklyn, N. Y., 24; Kansas City, Mo., 23; and Des Moines, Iowa, 23 per cent.

Receipts by fifty of the largest post-offices for May totaled nearly $22,000,000, as compared with $19,000,000 last year.

O'Grady was recaptured by night guards. Three automobiles were damaged in collision with the madman's car. No one was hurt.

BANKERS AT PARIS MAY GET FREE HAND

Reparations Commission Plans to Enlarge Scope of Loan Discussion.

PARIS, June 6 (Associated Press).—The desirability of enlarging the scope of the International Bankers' Committee, which has been considering a foreign loan for Germany, was unofficially discussed to-day by the members of the Reparations Commission. They decided to meet to-morrow morning to formulate a reply to the bankers, who recently asked for information as to the credit basis for the proposed loan.

The French member of the Reparations Commission is known to have been instructed by Premier Poincare not to approve any reduction in the total amount of reparations charged against Germany, but it is considered quite possible that the commission, without committing itself to any such reduction, may tell the bankers they are free to offer any suggestions they think helpful in solving the problem of an international loan.

STATE DEPARTMENT EMBARRASSED BY ATTACK ON ENVOYS

Watson's Speech Alleging Meddling by Ambassadors Causes Consternation.

BELIEVED INSPIRED

Senator Is Looked Upon as Spokesman for Harding in Upper House.

By David Lawrence. (Special Correspondent of The Evening World.)

WASHINGTON, June 6 (Copyright).—Senator James Watson of Indiana, Republican leader and mouth-piece of President Harding in the Upper House of Congress, has stirred up the Diplomatic Corps and given the Department of State a delicate problem to solve.

The Indiana Senator's speech criticizing the diplomatic representatives of foreign Governments for making addresses relating to the tariff on the ground that they were assuming to dictate to an American legislative body through public opinion is no casual affair. Under the usual rules of procedure the Department of State cannot help taking cognizance of the charges made by an American Senator, and if his charges are well founded the recall of the diplomats must be asked.

But nobody supposes for a minute that the Department of State will do any such thing. Officially, the department will take absolutely no cognizance of the speech and will go along as if it had not been made. This is the only course that will save it from embarrassment. And as for the foreign diplomats, they will undoubtedly take the hint and avoid assuming responsibility for their own utterances by submitting their speeches to the Department of State.

It is difficult to muzzle an Ambassador or Consul on the subject of trade and commerce. That's his paramount thought in peace time. He must keep the subjects of his own country who live in the United States constantly advised of the effect of the new laws or proposed laws. American Consuls and diplomats are doing the same thing abroad—informing American citizens of the possible effects of foreign laws pending or passed on their interests.

Somewhere between proper advice and improper influence there's a line, therefore diplomats have drawn this line for themselves. Senator Watson thinks it has been drawn too far toward the latter. To avoid misunderstanding, diplomats will ask the State Department to censor their speeches. The word "censorship" is perhaps misleading. The official way will be to submit a speech and ask the Department of State if it has any objection to its publication.

No one at the Department of State to-day seemed to know the reason for Senator Watson's speech. So far as could be learned, the circumstances complained of have not been made a subject of correspondence between the Department of State and the White House. Yet Senator Watson is a frequent caller at the Executive Mansion and is too old a hand at Washington procedure to take a fling at foreign diplomats without weighing the desires of the Administration.

The White House may deny all connection with Mr. Watson's utterance and the Indiana Senator may insist that it was his personal observation uninspired by the President, but the general belief is that he did not make the speech without the knowledge of Mr. Harding and that the purpose sought to be accomplished was to keep Ambassadors from expressing themselves on domestic matters, and since there were several Ambassadors and Ministers and Consuls involved it was deemed best by the powers-that-be to have a speech made in the Senate on the general subject so that it might serve as a warning to others who might inadvertently make the same mistake or otherwise might be likely to do so hereafter.

Sometimes roundabout ways have to be chosen, and while the Department of State is in a more or less awkward position by having its task of handling foreign diplomats assumed by another branch of the Government the chances are the department will not go out of its way to make a point of the episode.

"BLEW" FORTUNE, SWINDLED FRIEND, GETS NEW CHANCE

Probation Officer Says Repentant Young Man May Again Be Rich

Paul G. Simon, a young man who has had a meteoric career in business, finance and the White Light District, was paroled to-day by Judge Talley in the Court of General Sessions when arraigned for sentence on a conviction of grand larceny found by a jury in April. The parole is based on his promise to go to work, earn money and repay $10,000 he obtained from Nathan Bushman of No. 829 Jennings Street, the Bronx, by false pretenses in July, 1920.

According to George V. Medaile, young Simon made $750,000 in the early days of the war by speculating in steel. Then he joined the army and served a year in the Medical Corps on Governor's Island. When he was discharged he started in to spend his fortune in the Tenderloin and in a few months he was broke. His wife divorced him, his family cast him off, his Tenderloin friends dropped him and he swindled Mr. Bushman, an old friend of his father, by representing that he was the president of a corporation which was about to make a big profit in a transaction in steel.

A probation officer reported to the court that the young man has apparently reformed and can probably make another fortune if he sticks to business.

"I SWALLOWED PINS," DECLARES BOY IN COURT

Policeman Made Him Take Them Once Before, He Says.

Procedure in the Court of Special Sessions, Brooklyn, was interrupted to-day when Daniel Riese, a sixteen-year-old prisoner, suddenly became ill and said: "I swallowed some pins." He was removed to the Raymond Street where Dr. Ross of the Long Island College Hospital examined him.

Riese, who lives at No. 27 Morgan Avenue, Brooklyn, when sent to jail May 19 on a charge of petty larceny, declared a policeman made him swallow pins. At Blackwell's Island Hospital X-rays showed three safety pins in his stomach. He was treated and sent back to prison. Dr. Ross ordered the youth returned to the hospital to determine if he actually had swallowed more pins.
